WRITING ASSESSMENT

G 1

Write your final composition here.

they wood go to Courd if they go to Farth if i wous in they Farth if i wous in they Farth is wood Compan to Gous that Intervent the proper library Score Point: 1 This response reflects fundamental deficiencies in persuasive writing skills. The writer takes the position that celebrities do not make more money than they deserve. However, the information presented to support this position is confusing and sometimes incoherent. There is no evidence of organization. In addition, there are serious and persistent errors in mechanics, usage, and sentence structure.	I Doun't think that Make more money
Score Point: 1 This response reflects fundamental deficiencies in persuasive writing skills. The writer takes the position that celebrities do not make more money than they deserve. However, the information presented to support this position is confusing and sometimes incoherent. There is no evidence of organization. In addition, there are serious and persistent errors in	than the decenier (as is they did
Score Point: 1 This response reflects fundamental deficiencies in persuasive writing skills. The writer takes the position that celebrities do not make more money than they deserve. However, the information presented to support this position is confusing and sometimes incoherent. There is no evidence of organization. In addition, there are serious and persistent errors in	they wood go to Courd if they go to
Score Point: 1 This response reflects fundamental deficiencies in persuasive writing skills. The writer takes the position that celebrities do not make more money than they deserve. However, the information presented to support this position is confusing and sometimes incoherent. There is no evidence of organization. In addition, there are serious and persistent errors in	Courd is a wass as the if i wous in they
Score Point: 1 This response reflects fundamental deficiencies in persuasive writing skills. The writer takes the position that celebrities do not make more money than they deserve. However, the information presented to support this position is confusing and sometimes incoherent. There is no evidence of organization. In addition, there are serious and persistent errors in	Palyaes i Wood Cumpan to. Cas that
Score Point: 1 This response reflects fundamental deficiencies in persuasive writing skills. The writer takes the position that celebrities do not make more money than they deserve. However, the information presented to support this position is confusing and sometimes incoherent. There is no evidence of organization. In addition, there are serious and persistent errors in	int that to the people he what
This response reflects fundamental deficiencies in persuasive writing skills. The writer takes the position that celebrities do not make more money than they deserve. However, the information presented to support this position is confusing and sometimes incoherent. There is no evidence of organization. In addition, there are serious and persistent errors in	thar for a Walel.
This response reflects fundamental deficiencies in persuasive writing skills. The writer takes the position that celebrities do not make more money than they deserve. However, the information presented to support this position is confusing and sometimes incoherent. There is no evidence of organization. In addition, there are serious and persistent errors in
This response reflects fundamental deficiencies in persuasive writing skills. The writer takes the position that celebrities do not make more money than they deserve. However, the information presented to support this position is confusing and sometimes incoherent. There is no evidence of organization. In addition, there are serious and persistent errors in
This response reflects fundamental deficiencies in persuasive writing skills. The writer takes the position that celebrities do not make more money than they deserve. However, the information presented to support this position is confusing and sometimes incoherent. There is no evidence of organization. In addition, there are serious and persistent errors in
This response reflects fundamental deficiencies in persuasive writing skills. The writer takes the position that celebrities do not make more money than they deserve. However, the information presented to support this position is confusing and sometimes incoherent. There is no evidence of organization. In addition, there are serious and persistent errors in
This response reflects fundamental deficiencies in persuasive writing skills. The writer takes the position that celebrities do not make more money than they deserve. However, the information presented to support this position is confusing and sometimes incoherent. There is no evidence of organization. In addition, there are serious and persistent errors in
This response reflects fundamental deficiencies in persuasive writing skills. The writer takes the position that celebrities do not make more money than they deserve. However, the information presented to support this position is confusing and sometimes incoherent. There is no evidence of organization. In addition, there are serious and persistent errors in
This response reflects fundamental deficiencies in persuasive writing skills. The writer takes the position that celebrities do not make more money than they deserve. However, the information presented to support this position is confusing and sometimes incoherent. There is no evidence of organization. In addition, there are serious and persistent errors in
This response reflects fundamental deficiencies in persuasive writing skills. The writer takes the position that celebrities do not make more money than they deserve. However, the information presented to support this position is confusing and sometimes incoherent. There is no evidence of organization. In addition, there are serious and persistent errors in
This response reflects fundamental deficiencies in persuasive writing skills. The writer takes the position that celebrities do not make more money than they deserve. However, the information presented to support this position is confusing and sometimes incoherent. There is no evidence of organization. In addition, there are serious and persistent errors in
This response reflects fundamental deficiencies in persuasive writing skills. The writer takes the position that celebrities do not make more money than they deserve. However, the information presented to support this position is confusing and sometimes incoherent. There is no evidence of organization. In addition, there are serious and persistent errors in
This response reflects fundamental deficiencies in persuasive writing skills. The writer takes the position that celebrities do not make more money than they deserve. However, the information presented to support this position is confusing and sometimes incoherent. There is no evidence of organization. In addition, there are serious and persistent errors in
This response reflects fundamental deficiencies in persuasive writing skills. The writer takes the position that celebrities do not make more money than they deserve. However, the information presented to support this position is confusing and sometimes incoherent. There is no evidence of organization. In addition, there are serious and persistent errors in
This response reflects fundamental deficiencies in persuasive writing skills. The writer takes the position that celebrities do not make more money than they deserve. However, the information presented to support this position is confusing and sometimes incoherent. There is no evidence of organization. In addition, there are serious and persistent errors in
This response reflects fundamental deficiencies in persuasive writing skills. The writer takes the position that celebrities do not make more money than they deserve. However, the information presented to support this position is confusing and sometimes incoherent. There is no evidence of organization. In addition, there are serious and persistent errors in
takes the position that celebrities do not make more money than they deserve. However, the information presented to support this position is confusing and sometimes incoherent. There is no evidence of organization. In addition, there are serious and persistent errors in	Score Point: 1 the information presented to support this position is confusing and sometimes incoherent. There is no evidence of organization. In addition, there are serious and persistent errors in There is no evidence of organization. In addition, there are serious and persistent errors in meenames, usage, and semence structure.	There is no evidence of organization. In addition, there are serious and persistent errors in meenames, usage, and semence structure.